Skanska Promotes McCain to Vice President

April 11, 2012, Seattle, Wash. – Skanska USA’s building construction business unit today announced the promotion of Kevin McCain to vice president and account manager for its Seattle office.

In this role, McCain will manage all company contact with new and existing clients in his portfolio, with the responsibility of building and maintaining client relationships. Additionally, the role comes with a significant responsibility to help recruit and develop Skanska employees.

“Kevin has been an integral part of our local management team for the past 16 years and has cultivated winning teams that have resulted in very successful projects,” said Skanska Executive Vice President and General Manager Chris Toher. “His ability to align our project teams with the business goals of a client is second to none. He has also been one of our primary leaders in recruiting new talent from our region.”

McCain has more than 19 years of experience in the construction industry. In his time at Skanska, he has been involved in a number of large and complex projects in market sectors such as hospitality, retail, healthcare and commercial. Previous projects include Virginia Mason Medical Center’s Jones Pavilion, the Seattle Sheraton Hotel, Metropolitan Park North office building, McIntyre Hall Performing Arts Center, Hotel Monaco locations both in Seattle and Denver, and various Crate and Barrel locations.

A lifelong resident of the state of Washington, McCain holds a Bachelor of Science in construction management from the University of Washington. He lives with his family in Seattle. Outside of work, he is an active runner, biker and triathlete.
