Skanska Appoints New Business Development Manager and Promotes Senior Project Manager

San Antonio, TX – Skanska USA Building Inc., recently announced the addition of Jamie Blakeslee as business development manager and the promotion of Eric Bunner to senior project manager.

As business development manager, Blakeslee's responsibilities include initiating new business opportunities for Skanska in the San Antonio area. She brings more than nine years of business development experience to Skanska, with the past five years in the construction industry. She most recently worked in business development at ARC Ridgway in San Antonio, where she built strong relationships in the community and increased sales by 171 percent in 2008.

Blakeslee graduated from the University of Central Florida with a degree in Organizational Communications. She is active in the following organizations: the National Association of Women in Construction (NAWIC), Society of Marketing Professional Services (SMPS), American Institute of Architects (AIA), Construction Management Association of America (CMAA), Association of General Contractors (AGC), and the United States Green Building Council (USGBC).

"Jamie's strong experience as well as her extensive network and knowledge of the San Antonio community will be key assets to Skanska as we continue to seek new commercial construction opportunities in the San Antonio market," said Brian Freeman, Skanska's Texas Area General Manager.

Bunner has been with Skanska for five years and his responsibilities as senior project manager include overseeing major construction projects in the San Antonio area. Bunner has experience working in the healthcare, education and government sectors on projects such as the Alamo Community College District (ACCD) St. Philip's College nursing building in San Antonio and the North Hills Hospital in North Richland Hills, Texas

Bunner graduated from University of Wisconsin at Platteville with a bachelor's degree in Industrial Technology Management and is a member of the American Society of Healthcare Engineering (ASHE).

"Eric's expanded leadership role in San Antonio will bring added knowledge and expertise to our clients and throughout the company," added Freeman.
