Skanska's internal control transferred to newly established Group Staff Unit Internal Audit and Compliance

Group Staff Unit Internal Audit and Compliance is being formed to meet the demands placed by the Swedish Code of Corporate Governance and to strengthen the control environment.

To date, responsibility for the Group's internal audit was within Group Staff Unit Controlling, but as of now this role is being transferred to the independent internal control function. Group Staff Unit Internal Audit and Compliance reports directly to the Board's Audit Committee and is under the management of the Chief Financial Officer.

Erik Skoglund has been appointed Senior Vice President responsible for the new Group Staff Unit. He was employed by Skanska AB in April this year and since then has worked with establishing the unit and adapting the Group's system for internal control to the demands of the Code of Corporate Governance.

Erik Skoglund holds a BSc in Finance and Accounting from the Gothenburg School of Economics and Business Administration and has worked as an authorized public accountant. Previously he served as CFO at Icore International in the UK, a company within the French Zodiac Group.
