False information regarding Skanska's upcoming Year-End Report

It has come to Skanska's knowledge that false and misleading information about Skanska's upcoming Year-End Report regarding the business in Latin America has been spread to the financial market through anonymous e-mails.

To avoid speculation, the company therefore immediately wants to inform the financial market and its stakeholders that the information in these e-mails is incorrect.

Among other things, the e-mails state that Skanska due to developments in Latin America would issue a profit warning in the upcoming Year-End Report and that the company would consider closing down its business unit in Latin America.

These anonymous statements are incorrect. Skanska is not planning to issue any profit warning and the company has a strong commitment to its business in Latin America.
