Skanska Names Ward and Gogolin to Lead Business Development in Atlanta

Skanska USA Building Inc. announces that Rob Ward has been appointed Vice President and Elton "Al" Gogolin has been named director of business development. Ward and Gogolin will both be based in Skanska's Atlanta office.

As the new vice president of business development, Ward is charged with overseeing the growth of Skanska's construction activities for the Atlanta office. Previously, he was director of business development at the company's Rockville, Md. office where he gained expertise in the federal, corporate commercial, higher education and life science markets with an emphasis on public/private transactions, such as the Enhanced Use Leasing program implemented by the U.S. Department of Defense.

Ward graduated from the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University with a bachelor's degree in Communications and Marketing. He is a LEED®-accredited professional.

As director of business development at Skanska's Corporate Commercial Center of Excellence in Atlanta, Gogolin is responsible for growing the company's construction business of corporate headquarters, high-rise towers and high-end hotel and resort projects.

With experience in office management, design and construction, Gogolin has a keen knowledge of the architectural, engineering and construction industries. Before joining Skanska, he was a principal and director of facilities at Pond & Company, Inc. in Atlanta.

Gogolin earned a bachelor's degree in Civil Engineering from the Georgia Institute of Technology in Atlanta and is a registered professional engineer.

"We welcome Rob and Al to our growing Skanska family," said Paul Anderson, -Chief Operating Officer of Skanska USA Building's Atlanta office. "Our momentum in the Southeast will be greatly helped by the contributions of these two outstanding professionals."
