

Crossrail awards Costain Skanska JV £110 million Bond Street Station

Today, Skanska UK is pleased to announce that it has been awarded a five-year contract, in joint venture with Costain, to deliver the main station works at the new Crossrail Bond Street Station in London.

The contract comprises the construction of ticket halls – including platform fit-out and mechanical and electrical services for the Western Ticket Hall (Davies Street) and Eastern Ticket Hall (Hanover Square). In addition, it includes interfacing with the tunnelling, track and rail power contractors, as well as local community engagement.

Skanska UK Executive Vice President Bill Hocking said: “We are delighted to have secured another part of the Crossrail programme. This is the seventh contract for the joint venture and follows on from the Bond Street advance civil engineering works, which we won in March 2011.

“Being awarded the last of the main construction contracts for the new central section stations is testament to our performance on Crossrail overall, and to the great people we have in place delivering these contracts across the capital.”

Work is set to begin in February 2013 and is scheduled to conclude in February 2017 ahead of Crossrail’s opening in 2018.
