Skanska Employees Achieve LEED® Accreditation

Houston, TX – Skanska USA Building Inc. announced today the recent LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) Accreditation of four Skanska employees that included Matt Daniel, Vice President of Business Development in Houston; Adrienne Wojtasz, Project Engineer in Harlingen, Texas; Joe Klich, Assistant Superintendent in Houston and Rudi Ediam, Project Engineer in San Antonio.

LEED Accredited professionals have demonstrated an understanding for sustainable green building and development practices and are certified by the U.S. Green Building Council.

“Sustainable initiatives are a critical component in today’s construction management industry,” said Brian Freeman, Skanska’s Texas Area General Manager. “It is a priority for employees to be up-to-date and knowledgeable on environmental trends and we are proud of Matt, Adrienne, Joe and Rudi’s accomplishments and leadership in Skanska’s green programs.”

Skanska currently has nine LEED certified employees in Texas and nearly 400 across the U.S.
