Skanska Adds John Tamborino as Vice President of Preconstruction

Brings 30 years of experience in cost estimating and construction management

New York, N.Y. – Skanska USA, a leading provider of construction management, preconstruction, and design-build services, has hired John Tamborino as vice president of preconstruction in their New York flagship office.

In his new role at Skanska, Tamborino will utilize his 30 years of industry experience that includes managing and coordinating multi-discipline estimating and pricing activities, client and architect interaction, preparation and presentation of conceptual and competitive bid proposals, and assisting in the development of computerized estimating software systems. In his new role, Tamborino will be responsible for overseeing preconstruction work in the Metro NY area.

“John brings to Skanska an unparalleled level of experience and is acknowledged within the New York City Healthcare community as a leader in providing project planning and preconstruction services,” said Richard Kennedy, chief operating officer for the Metro New York area at Skanska USA.

Prior to joining Skanska, Tamborino served as chief estimator at Bovis Lend Lease where he was responsible for all estimating and pricing activities for their New York office. In the past, he has worked on numerous healthcare projects including those for North Shore-Long Island Jewish, New York Presbyterian Hospital and Mount Sinai Medical Center. His portfolio of experience also includes work at Columbia University, World Trade Center Transportation Hub and Grand Central Terminal.

Tamborino is a LEED® Accredited Professional (AP) and received his ASHE Healthcare Construction Certificate (HCC) in 2007. He received his Bachelor of Science in Business Administration from Syracuse University. He currently resides in Newtown, Conn. with his wife and their three children.
