Skanska builds new hospital pavilion in Arlington, Virginia for $37 million

Skanska has signed a contract with Virginia Hospital Center to build a new outpatient pavilion and parking garage in Arlington, Virginia. The contract is worth $37 million which will be included in the US order bookings for the fourth quarter of 2019.

The new six-story outpatient pavilion will house physical therapy examination and treatment rooms, radiology and imaging suites, clinics for examinations and six operating rooms. The parking garage includes three levels below grade and six levels above grade sized to hold 1,700 cars.

Construction began in June 2019 and is scheduled for completion in January 2023.
