Skanska renovates North Central Bronx Hospital in Bronx, New York for $64.8 million

Skanska has signed a contract with the New York City Health and Hospital Corporation to renovate the North Central Bronx Hospital in Bronx, New York. The contract is worth $64.8 million, which will be included in the US order bookings for the second quarter of 2020.

The 71,000-square-foot renovation includes the addition of 120 Intensive Care Unit (ICU) beds and support space for the executive administration staff at the existing hospital.

Construction began in April 2020, with ICU beds expedited for completion in May 2020 and final project completion scheduled for September 2020.
